Class Exercise 3:

1. With reference to system building, explain why you may sometimes have to maintain obsolete computers on which large software systems were developed.

2. Describe five factors that should be taken into account by engineers during the process of building a release of a software system.

3. What are the main build system functionality?

4. What factors are involved in change analysis?